Chapter 1

Grid-based headings

This is the text following a chapter heading.

1.1 Section

This is the text following the section.

1.1.1 Subsection

This is the text following the subsection.

Subsubsection

This is the text following the subsubsection.

Paragraph heading

The paragraph text begins on the next line because paragraph and subparagraph are configured as block headings so their lower spacing can be vertical.

Subparagraph heading

This is the text following the subparagraph.

1.1.2 Only this subsection kind is excluded from grid automation

This level temporarily uses the class's original title spacing; the body paragraph after it is automatically returned to the grid, while other heading levels continue to use the grid.

1.2 Grid temporarily disabled

This section uses the class's original heading spacing and paragraph style.